Are you looking for something SPECIAL, INDIVIDUAL away from the masses? Then you are exactly right here with us.

The historic MEIXNER House from the 16th century has been extensively renovated and expanded in a very open, generous construction style with modern Tyrolean design and great attention to detail. The entire ambiance is warm and inviting. The room ceilings have been deliberately omitted, and the exposed roof truss is open, giving this extraordinary STUDIO APARTMENT with LOFT CHARACTER its very special touch, creating spaciousness through the pronounced room height.

The oversized bathroom enchants with its panoramic windows, a walk-in shower with overhead showerhead, and a bathtub for TWO built into original vintage wood with light effects. The stove in the living area provides coziness and additional warmth. All in all, it's a noticeably special place to feel good all around, in every season. Relax and enjoy. Find peace.

Marco und Martina Exenberger

As active paragliders and enthusiastic sailors, we have traveled a lot around the world ourselves. We love (and speak) multiple languages, are interested in other cultures, and are always open to exchanging ideas with friendly people.

We recently returned from an extensive trip to America, a combination of sailing and a road trip, which inspired us to become hosts ourselves: The often sensational private accommodations we found there appealed to us much more than conventional hotels: the more personal atmosphere with a genuine feeling of being at home in often very extraordinary accommodations far away from the impersonal and monotonous hotel rooms. The contact, warmth, and hospitality, the know-how of the locals.
